Dear Valued Customer,

RE: Portable Ni-MH battery and Lithium battery business transfer

Thank you very much for your continued support to the Ni-MH and Lithium battery business.

As SANYO Electric Co., Ltd ("SANYO") informed you by letter, dated October 28, 2009, our company, FDK Corporation, expects to acquire SANYO Energy Twicell Co., Ltd and SANYO Tottori Co., Ltd. in January 12, 2010.

As a result, we will acquire the factory function and succeed SANYO in the production and supply of Ni-MH and Lithium batteries. In order to maintain the current product quality and customer satisfaction, FDK Corporation will continue production from the same Takasaki and Tottori plants and retain SANYO human resources.

Since the transaction has not yet been completed, more detailed information will follow after completion of the business transfer.

For the business in Australia and New Zealand we have appointed as our Distributor Master Instruments Pty Ltd as your supplier instead of Sanyo Oceania Pty Ltd. Please place your Purchase Orders with this distributor from this point forward. We understand all former SANYO Oceania distributors already have active trading accounts with Master Instruments Pty Ltd

Finally, regarding the commercial terms and conditions such as payment, Master Instruments Pty Ltd will keep the terms and conditions that you currently have with SANYO Oceania Pty Ltd, to the extent possible.

Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Mr. Hirofumi Hoshino (hoshino@fdk.co.jp)

Yours faithfully,

Hirofumi Hoshino

Managing Director
